CHALLENGES INVESTIGATION

Denby, Who Resigns from Cabinet, Defends Official Acts.

WILL SERVE UNTIL MARCH 10

Secretary of Navy Declares That In Making Leases of Naval Oil Reserves He Had Acted In The Interests of the Country Openly and In Good Faith—Not Resigning For Fear of Impeachment. He States.

Washington, Feb. 19.—In formally announcing his resignation from the cabinet, Edwin B. Denby, secretary of the navy, challenged an investigation of his official acts by any tribunal. He declared that in making the leases of naval oil reserves he had acted in the interest of the country openly, and in good faith.

Secretary Denby stated that since the resignation will not become effective until March 10, there is plenty of time for impeachment proceedings to be begun against him in congress. Therefore, he declared, anyone who says he is resigning because he fears impeachment simply "lies." In his statement Mr. Denby said:

"My own vindication and that of the navy department will come with the proper ventilation of the questions connected with these leases in the impartial courts. As a private citizen, if I have committed any offense against the law, I am still subject to action. I am able to fight my own battles, but I can not fight slander protected by senatorial immunity. No more than I can more deeply deplore fraud or corruption in public or private life, and where such guilt is shown it should be rigorously punished. The president has stood up manfully for right and justice. The sportsmanlike thing for me to do is to relieve him of the further embarrassment of continued political maneuvering and partisan trickery.

"It has not been proven, nor do I believe it can be proven, that my action was not beneficial both to the government and the navy. The senate has known of these leases for nearly two years and yet has done nothing to stop them until the passage of the Walsh resolution. The disaster that has overcome these plans, made in the interest of the American people, is that a serious charge of corruption has been laid against them, which charge lies entirely outside the navy department or any of its officials, and if these charges should be established there is no rectification of the moral situation, except by the return of these properties to the government, for no man should be allowed to hold any business that he obtained by wrongful means."

Assistant Secretary of the Navy Theodore Roosevelt, Jr., had an audience with President Coolidge. Upon leaving the white house Roosevelt declared he had not resigned. He added he did not discuss with the president any question of a successor to Secretary Denby. Roosevelt, it was stated, offered his resignation, but Mr. Coolidge told him the question need not be discussed at this time.

Denby entered the cabinet when President Harding took office, March 4, 1921. In April, 1922, Denby, with then Secretary of the Interior Fall, signed the lease of the Teapot Dome (Wyoming) oil reserve to the Mammoth Oil company, Harry F. Sinclair's company, and later signed a similar lease of the California oil reserves to E. L. Doheny.

To Probe Alleged Frauds.

Washington, Feb. 19.—Charges of misused of the mails in connection with alleged land frauds in the lower Rio Grande valley will be investigated. A subcommittee of five senators was named to conduct the investigation. The members are: Senators George H. Moses, Republican, of New Hampshire, chairman; Tasker L. Oddie, Republican, of Nevada; Walter E. Edge, Republican, of New Jersey; Thomas J. Heflin, Democrat, of Alabama; and Park Trammell, Democrat, of Florida.

Hearing on Bread Bill.

Washington, Feb. 19.—A hearing on the bill of Representative Charles Brand of Ohio, penalizing the sale of short weight bread, took place before the house committee on agriculture. Mr. Brand appeared as author of the bill to defend it and L. J. Taber of Barnesville, O., also spoke in its favor. Bakers from various parts of the country were present or represented at the hearing.

FRANC DECLINES

Drops to New Low Record Despite Poincare's Program.

Paris, Feb. 19.—The French franc collapsed to a new low record yesterday, falling to 23.40 to the dollar. The pound was at 100.50. The decline came in the face of Premier Poincare's strong program for strengthening of national finances, and was attributed in part to opposition to the program. Socialist deputies condemned the 20 per cent increase in taxes before it became effective and outlined a series of measures of their own to rehabilitate the franc.

Senator Loucheur, leading industrialist, told a meeting of the Republican federation at Cambrai that a new fall can be prevented by the government favoring the appeal to the French holders of 30 billion francs in foreign securities, from whom he believed it is possible to obtain at least five billion francs for action in the leading exchange markets of the world.

HOUSE TO VOTE SOON ON INCOME TAX RATE

Republican Leaders Continue Efforts for Compromise.

Washington, Feb. 19.—A vote in the house on the income tax feature of the tax reduction bill is expected tomorrow, general debate on the measure having closed last evening.

Conferees between house Republican regulars and insurgents failed to break the deadlock on the rates. Progressives stood pat for a 50 per cent cut in the normal income tax rate, but Republican Leader Longworth refused to budge from his position that the lower rate would be a fundamental change in the Mellon program. If the compromise effort fails, Democratic leaders predicted the passage of the Garner plan with 44 per cent maximum surtax rates and normal income taxes cut in half.

As a final concession to win progressive votes, Longworth agreed to accept 37 1/2 per cent as the surtax maximum. He had previously declared 35 per cent was the outside maximum he would accept. While Representative Glague, Minnesota, of the progressive group, announced his willingness to accept 37 1/2 per cent, he is determined to have the present 4 and 8 per cent normal taxes cut in half. Longworth insists normal rates can not be cut below the 3 and 6 per cent fixed by Secretary Mellon. A lower rate would result in a treasury deficit, Longworth said.

Packer Testifies.

New York, Feb. 19.—A. D. Loeffler, president of the Loeffler Provision company and the Washington Abattoir, testified in the department of agriculture hearing in the Armour-Morris purchase case that one concern could not possibly monopolize or control prices in the meat packing industry. He said competition in the packing business had become so keen since the war and that so many independent concerns had started in the business that monopoly was impossible. In Washington, he added, there was keen competition, especially from Baltimore, but the small packers were holding their own because they were able, through low overhead expense, to quote lower prices.

M'ADOO REMAINS IN THE RACE

His Supporters Will Fight for His Nomination.

OUTCOME OF THE CONFERENCE

Confidence In Former Secretary of Treasury Voted Unanimously by the Several Hundred Party Leaders and His Friends Attending the Chicago Parley—Cummins Attacks the Republican Administration.

Chicago, Feb. 19.—William G. McAdoo, former secretary of the treasury, is to remain in the race for the Democratic presidential nomination.

This is the outcome of the conference here of supporters of McAdoo for the nomination. Complete confidence in McAdoo was voted unanimously by the several hundred party leaders who had gathered here from every section of the country to attend the conference. Delegates and telegrams from 40 states announced a determination to fight for McAdoo's nomination and election.

In short speeches the speakers reaffirmed their faith in McAdoo and proclaimed him the "hope of the progressives, both Democrats and Republicans." They declared McAdoo acted in a strictly legal and ethical capacity for the Doheny oil interests in Mexico.

The conference was roused to a high pitch of enthusiasm by the reading of a telegram of support from Senator T. J. Walsh, Democrat, of Montana, of the senate committee investigating the Teapot Dome oil scandal. The telegram declared McAdoo free of any of the charges of corruption and announced Walsh's unqualified choice of McAdoo for president.

Homer Cummings, former chairman of the Democratic national committee, declared in a speech that "liberalism or reaction" was the chief issue to be settled by the McAdoo "availability conference." Cummings charged the Republican administration with hanging up a record of disastrous failures, spotted with scandals and culminating with the amazing Teapot Dome disclosures.

McAdoo, in a communication to the conference, stated his own political future was of no consequence beside the greater issue of the Teapot Dome scandal. The question before the people, he said, is whether corruption shall continue in Washington. His availability was up to the conference, McAdoo declared. In case the conference decided it is to the best interests to the party that he do so, he said he would gladly step out.

"Powerful financial influences which I had to fight for six years while secretary of the treasury, unscrupulous railroad officials who filed false claims against the government, the bosses and other sinister influences, are determined to control the government at any cost," McAdoo said.

MAKES REPORT TO SENATE

Daugherty Details Activities in Prosecution of War Frauds.

Washington, Feb. 19.—Attorney General Daugherty sent to the senate a report on the justice department's activities in the prosecution of war frauds. The report was sent to the senate in response to Senator King's resolution. Daugherty said he was reluctant. Daugherty said he was names contained in the information public because of an injury it might cause innocent persons. "The attorney general," he said, "notwithstanding the great and continuous demands, since the work on war transactions began early in his administration, for a detailed statement showing who were under investigation, what cases were in progress of examination, and what accounts were being audited, has insisted, and still insists, that it is inimical to the welfare of the government to make such names, transactions and investigations public."

Misquoted, Says Miller.

Washington, Feb. 19.—Thomas Miller, alien property custodian, sent a statement to President Coolidge alleging he had been misquoted in reports of his New York speech, in which he was stated to have declared that the late President Harding and President Coolidge had been misinformed by the treasury on taxation necessary for the bonus.

Coal Barges Sunk.

Gallipolis, O., Feb. 19.—Two coal barges were sunk in the Ohio river near here by a tugboat. The coal was consigned to a Cincinnati firm.

Lose Suit In High Court.

Columbus, Feb. 19.—The Young Men's Christian association and the Young Women's Christian association of Columbus, Berea college and American Missionary association lost their suit in federal supreme court to force the withdrawal of federal estate tax from the taxable bequests of the estate of the late Mrs. Mary J. Sessions, instead of from the nontaxable residue left to them. The high court held that the tax to be paid should be extracted from the residuary estate left to charitable or other exempt purposes.

Schools Lack Funds.

Piqua, O., Feb. 19.—This city's public schools only have sufficient funds to continue until April 15 or May 1, although the regular time for closing is June 6. Other schools, especially in rural districts of Miami county, are also in need of funds. A conference with the state auditor will be held shortly by Superintendent T. E. Hook of Troy schools, together with members of the Troy school board, to see if state funds can not be secured to prevent closing.

Minister Accepts Call.

Cleveland, Feb. 19.—Rev. Arthur H. Limouze of Glenview Presbyterian church, this city, will assume his duties as pastor of Northminster Presbyterian church in Columbus about April 1. Announcement that Rev. Mr. Limouze had accepted the call to the Columbus charge was made here when he tendered his resignation to his present congregation.

Suit Dismissed.

Wilmington, Del., Feb. 19.—Federal Judge Morris issued a formal decree dismissing the bill of complaint in the suit of the government to recover from the Chemical Foundation, Inc., seized German dye patents sold to it by the alien property custodian. Certain costs specified during the trial were placed on the government.

Two Killed by Train.

Bullet Wound May Be Fatal.

Cleveland, Feb. 19.—Lottie Jaskolski, 19, is in a hospital from an attempt, according to police, to end her life by a bullet. She may die.

Liner Runs Aground.

Marshfield, Ore., Feb. 19.—The "graveyard of ships" claimed another vessel, the liner Columbia. All aboard, 30 passengers and crew, were saved. The Columbia went aground at the mouth of Texcos bay in a heavy fog.

PROBERS GUARD NEW EVIDENCE

Confession Alleged in the Oil Investigation.

IT RELATES TO SPECULATION

Prosecutors In Oil Land Leasing Cases to Apply For Injunction to Halt Lessees From Drawing Oil From the Government Reserves. Roberts' Nomination Confirmed by the Senate—Other Developments.

Washington, Feb. 19.—The senate by a vote of 68 to 8 confirmed the nomination of Owen J. Roberts, Republican, of Philadelphia, as counsel in the oil leasing cases.

Roberts' confirmation completed action of the senate toward bringing the leases into the federal court. Nothing now stands in the way of an immediate application for an injunction to stop Harry Sinclair and E. L. Doheny from withdrawing more oil from the government oil reserves. That will be the first step in the court fight to get back the oil leases and to punish any guilty of fraud or corruption in connection with the leasing.

Senators voting against Roberts were: Ashurst, Wheeler and Shepard, Democrats; Brookhart, Frazier and LaFollette, Republicans, and Johnson (Minnesota) and Shipstead, Farmer-Laborer.

Atlee Pomerene of Ohio, who was confirmed Saturday night by a vote in the senate of 59 to 13, said that a statement will be issued soon outlining the procedure the special counsel will follow. Pomerene indicated this will consist, first of the injunction suit to stop further pumping of oil from the reserves and application for receivers to take care of the interests of the government and the lessee until the cases are finally decided; second, suits to abrogate the leases, and, finally, convening of a federal grand jury to return indictments against anyone guilty of criminal acts in connection with the leasing.

A sensational "confession" has provided the senate oil investigators with new evidence relating to oil speculation. It was said here. Committee members declined to reveal who made the confession and are carefully guarding details of the new evidence. Several subpoenas have been issued, however, for "important witnesses," whose names are being withheld for the present.

SLAIN IN COURT

Judge Shot by Prisoner, Who Then Turns Gun on Himself.

Lincoln, Neb., Feb. 19.—District Judge W. M. Morning was shot and killed in court by Wallace G. Wallick, who a moment later killed himself with the same revolver. Wallick was on trial on a charge of nonsupport. He had just refused the services of an attorney when he suddenly whipped out a revolver and shot the judge. Wheeling about and facing the chairs where his wife and her friends were seated, Wallick turned the revolver on himself and fired. He died within a few minutes. A letterhead found in Wallick's pocket gave his home as Yuma, Colo., and his business as "tunnel engineer." A second loaded revolver was found by police in searching his clothes.

Holds Tea and Coffee Intoxicants.

Trenton, N. J., Feb. 19.—Hudson Maxim, scientist and inventor, stated he had engaged counsel to take action under the eighteenth amendment against restaurants, hotels and other places selling tea and coffee. The eighteenth amendment, Mr. Maxim asserted, prohibited intoxicating liquors and therefore applies to all drugs and other preparations which produce intoxication in any degree. Dictionary definitions, he said, would be sufficient to bring tea and coffee within the prohibition amendment.

Anti-Child Labor Proposal In.

Washington, Feb. 19.—The senate judiciary subcommittee reported to the senate an anti-child labor amendment. The amendment gives congress the "power to prohibit the labor of persons under the age of 18 years and to prescribe the conditions of such labor." It also would suspend any state laws interfering with the amendment.

Radio Appeal Effective.

Cincinnati, Feb. 19.—Judge William H. Leuders, chairman of the Cincinnati branch of the American committee for relief of German children, reported that a radio appeal brought more than $1,000 to the fund.

RIEGL'S STAND

Insanitary Conditions at Buckeye Lake Must Be Improved.

Columbus, Feb. 19.—Dr. John H. Monger, state health director, announced that the controversy over whether the state or private individuals hold title to lands at Buckeye Lake, on which are "barrow pits" containing polluted water, will not affect the determination of the state department of health to close up the summer resort unless insanitary conditions there are improved.

Dr. Monger asked the state board of control for funds to pay for filling the "barrow pits" some time ago, but the board held up the appropriation, awaiting specific and definite report from engineers of the state department of public works, which it was thought held title to the land in question. Investigation is said to have disclosed that part of the land thought to have been in the state's name is in reality owned by Mrs. Margaret Rosebraugh, who got the title from Hiram Laughrey, to whom it was sold by act of the legislature in 1891.

In face of these developments, it is believed the work of the health department is made easier because an order can be issued to private owners without the "red tape" necessary to get action out of the state or the board of control.

Union County's Delegation.

Marysville, O., Feb. 19.—William Dodge, David Ogan, Dallas Sullivan, Ethel Robinson, Ernest C. Reed, Frank Brugler, Mrs. Mary Whitney, Lloyd R. Smallman and Edward H. Hutton were selected as the delegates from Union county to the state Republican convention at Columbus in June.

DICTATOR KAHN QUILTS

Step May Lighten Burden of the Berlin Government.

Berlin, Feb. 19.—Dictator Von Kahr and General Lassoow, heads of the Bavarian government, have resigned. The dictatorship powers held by the former were returned to the Bavarian state cabinet.

Retirement of Von Kahr tightens the Berlin government's ever-recurring problem of controversies with Bavaria. Von Kahr and General Lassoow were known as "putschists," conspirators against the republican government. They had become extremely unpopular in Munich because of a story that the former broke his word of honor in connection with the recently frustrated "beer cellar putsch."

Judgment Affirmed.

Cleveland, Feb. 19.—Court of appeals here affirmed a $50,000 judgment awarded Miss Grace L. Meacham of Elyria by a jury in common pleas court. The original judgment was against both the city of Elyria and the New York Central railroad, but the appellate court eliminated the railroad in its decision. Miss Meacham was seriously injured at Elyria.

Tailored Suits in Fashion in Paris

Well-Dressed Women Place
Stamp of Approval on Garment.

Suits are enjoying a bigger vogue than they have for some time past.
The various Paris couturiers have put forth an avalanche of ideas in the numerous models which they have created for this spring, writes a Paris fashion correspondent in the New York Tribune. The models which appeared at the spring openings in Paris were quickly accepted by the smart Parisienne, who at once placed her stamp of approval on the tailleur and the three-piece costume.

Three different silhouettes are seen in the new suits. First there is the straight-line model, often varied by being closely fitted about the curve of the hips. Then there is the bell-shaped silhouette, achieved by either a three-quarters length coat and a flaring skirt or by a hip-length jacket straight of line, accompanied by a flaring skirt. Finally, there is the 1880 silhouette greatly modified from the 1880 bustle gown, but characterized by a skirt drawn in at the ankles and following the figure closely in front. There is upward drapery at the back, often combined with a black panel and sash ends which fall from the back of the jacket.

Both the normal and low waistline are evident in suit coats. Some suits effect a compromise by having two narrow belts, one placed about the hips and the other slightly below the normal waist.

In the matter of skirt length there is a great diversity of opinion. Some three-piece suits have skirts which swathe the ankles, while others swing 12 inches above the ground.

Gray, beige and the lighter browns, such as leaf brown and toast, hold the stage in the more dressy tailored suits. The whole gamut comes into play in the three-piece afternoon costumes and the sports suits are in all the colors of the rainbow. White is extremely popular for sports suits and a brilliant jacket or cape often tops a white one-piece or two-piece frock of this type.

Navy blue is extremely smart for afternoon wear and is usually enlivened with an unexpected color complement, such as brique, scarlet, yellow, blue, green or a combination of bright colors in the form of embroidery, a gayly printed silk blouse or printed handkerchief.

Petal Candle Shades
for Milady's Boudoir

A shower of petals, lavender and pink taffeta, makes a small boudoir lamp or candle shade that would add charm to any dressing table. No woman need long for these dainty accessories; even if she cannot afford to purchase them from the downtown

Shade for Candle or Lamp.

shops, she can purchase the wire frames and make her own shades. The frames are wrapped with ribbon tape, the georgette, chiffon or taffeta petals sewed tightly at top and bottom, and the edges covered with rosebud trimming which comes by the yard, or a gold galloon.

Walls and Furniture
Both Plain and Artful

"If the wall paper of a room is of brilliant design, then the draperies preferably should be of a plain color and of a color that will echo with some color in the wall paper design," says William Dallas Campbell, national expert on interior decorating and arrangement.

"If there is a bit of yellow in the design that strikes your fancy, pick a similar shade for the draperies. If the draperies be of an outstanding design, pick wall paper of a shade that will echo with a color in the drapery.

"Color, color, color and more color, is one essential element of a dining room, color and light. The colors used, however, must not jar, must not awaken one too rudely to face a new day, but must cheer, must be artistic, comforting.

"The breakfast room should have one large window, at least, to let in the morning light, to fill the room with the spirit of freshness and good cheer."

How Braid Trimmings
Should Be Handled

Before cutting braid which is likely to fray, twist cotton tightly around it and cut just below the part so tied.

It is advisable to run a thread once or twice across the end of cut braid to prevent it unraveling and spreading out of shape when the cut edge is being turned under.

When binding coat edges with braid tack on both sides before sewing it down with neat stitches, and then iron over with a damp cloth.

When applying braid to a round or looped design, sew down the outer edge first; afterward the fullness on the inner edge can be arranged to fall neatly in place.

Device to Facilitate Instruction in Writing

Electrograph is the name of an instrument invented in Spain to facilitate instruction in writing in schools.
The apparatus is designed to educate the hand to move in accordance with the will. First of all, metallic sheets are cut in such manner as to afford graphic designs most difficult for the untrained muscles—angles, loops, straight lines, crooked lines, vertical and horizontal lines, etc. The sheets, when used by the child, must be so arranged that they may easily be brought together or separated, as desired; and this is necessary also in order to make the lesson difficult or easy, as desired by the instructor.
These sheets, consequently, are fastened down with screws so peculiarly made that a certain pressure may cause them to give a bit to one side or the other. Under the desk is an electric bell connected with the sheets above by a copper wire. Below these, and entirely isolated, is another system of sheets. The child is brought before the instrument and told to place his paper between the free spaces of the sheets, mark his outline and then punch a key. This contact will open the electric current and make the bell ring. If the pressure he exerts does not make the metallic outline precisely cover the one on his penciled paper, the bell below rings, giving immediate notice of his error.
The child enjoys the "game," and is stimulated to make his loop or curve exactly match that of the metallic sheet.

Concerning the Sabbath.
According to the Bible the Lord created the world in six days and rested on the seventh. As Saturday is the seventh day of the week, the Jews observe it as the Sabbath, as do certain other denominations following the old Mosaic law. When Christ said: "The old things have passed away; behold, they are become new," his followers regarded this as a command to change the old order, and they made the day of his resurrection the Sabbath.

FRIEDMAN'S APPAREL FOR WOMEN

Some Moniker!
Speaking of names, as the Nomad has been in recent issues, we once read of an English baby being christened "Actsoftheapostles Kennett." Which is some moniker, you'll admit. No doubt it was considerably abbreviated later, and it is not difficult to imagine the lad's mother exclaiming in a moment of exasperation: "Actso, how can you act so?"

Warns Against Using Imported Clover Seed
Experiments Show Many Plants Winter-Killed.
Warning against the sowing of imported red clover seed in Minnesota is being given by Minnesota experiment station men. Their attitude is based on the results of experiments started at University farm in 1922 when seedlings were made with red clover, furnished by the bureau of plant industry, from leading seed-producing states in this country and from all the foreign countries from which seed is imported. The following winter was mild, but despite that fact from 24.6 to 93.8 per cent of the plants grown from seed from Finland, Poland, Bohemia, northern Germany, Holland, Hungary, Australia, France, Wales, Chile and Italy were winter-killed. The plots from seed produced in Minnesota, Wisconsin, Michigan, Idaho and Saskatchewan showed only 8.3 per cent winter-killing.
"The stands on the plots where seed from Wales, France, Chile and Italy was sown averaged less than 20 per cent in every instance, and no cuttings of hay were made," says A. C. Army, who is in charge of farm crops at the Minnesota station. "Where the winter-killing averaged from 40 to 80 per cent, cuttings of hay were made, but the yields were small. Where the winter-killing was 20 to 30 per cent the yields were reduced materially."
Because of the shortage of red clover seed in the United States, the supply being only about 45 per cent of the normal, the importation of large quantities of seed from Chile, France and Italy is forecast. "None of this imported seed should come into the northern tier of states," says Mr. Army. "And, further, farmers and seedsmen in these northern states should see that none of the seed produced at home is shipped out until it is definitely known that all home needs have been taken care of."

Winter Garden Work Is Big Relief in Spring
If the work that may be done in winter is taken care of the work in the spring when we are rushed will trouble us much less. Trash and old stalks of tomatoes and potatoes should be gathered and burned or made into a compost heap. Manure should be spread, and the earlier the better if it is at all fresh, though rotted manure is better spread nearer time when the plowing is to be done in the spring. Then when soil is dry enough and frost is out of the ground any time after New Year the ground may be plowed and it will settle enough to be just right for planting. Seeds will germinate much more certainly and grow off better in a fairly firm soil, and plowed soil will dry out after spring rains and may be worked without loss of this vital time when seeds must be planted for early garden. If all this work is out of the way, the garden tools bright and well sharpened, trellis material all ready to put in place, stakes for things needing them, and poles for the beans and peas all handy, things will move smoothly and we will avoid the discomfort of having the work behind and crowding us, while weeds shout for joy, and crusts form to dissipate the moisture.

Examples Proving Value of Silo on Dairy Farms
There are so many thousands of examples which prove the value of the silo that it is difficult to select. However, here is one which should be considered by dairy farmers. Some fourteen years ago a cow-testing association was started in a county in a middle-western state. It was a new and unheard-of work to most of the farmers, but they bravely went into the enterprise and a systematic report was kept of some 21 herds. At the end of the year a complete report was made and in it a table was given showing the profit from herds where silage was fed and from those that did not receive silage. The monthly profit per cow in the silage group was $5.22 and in the non-silage group was $2.95. This would make a difference of $29.04 for the silage cow above the non-silage cow, or for a herd of twenty cows the increased profit in feeding silage would be $580.80. This saving was made at a time when dairy products were much cheaper than they are today. The saving refers only to the milking herd, and silage was fed to dry cows, heifers, calves, bulls and horses.

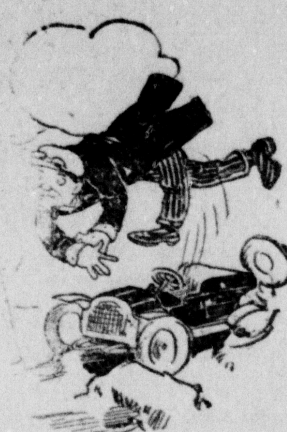

Moldy Sweet Clover Hay Proves Fatal to Cattle
Some deaths from feeding sweet clover hay have been reported from the northwest states. Professor Walster of North Dakota states that in every case investigated it was found that the cattle had been fed moldy hay. Lesions similar to those found in anthrax accompany poisoning with moldy sweet clover hay. He says there is no danger when the hay is free from mold.

Find Actual Plant Food in a Ton of Fertilizer
Plant food costs less in high-analysis fertilizers than in low-analysis fertilizers despite the higher ton price of the former. Figures compiled by the state chemist of Pennsylvania show that the actual plant food in a ton of fertilizer analyzing 17.09 per cent cost $3.06 less than in a ton analyzing 12.47 per cent plant food.

Sneeze Greeted in Many Ways in Various Places
"A vos souhaits!" (God bless you!) Now is the season when you hear the expression very frequently. With these words we apostrophize one who sneezes.
Among the Indian tribes of North America, we understand, a polite question is elicited by the sneeze of one's companion: "Who calls me?" When an Eskimo sneezes he says to himself: "Come back to me!" for popular belief has it that the sneeze indicates an escape or flight of the soul.
In the British East Indies it is also believed that part of the soul flies forth at each sneeze; and when the natives hear a friend sneeze, they say: "God protect you!" to which the sneezer's response should be: "And you likewise!" The Siamese believe that a person sneezes because God, turning the pages of the Doomsday Book, has paused at His name.
In Portugal, when anyone sneezes, you raise your hat. The Irish and the Russians, like the Hindus, exclaim: "God protect you!" The Italians say: "Felicita!"
As for the English, they don't say anything at all, but they immediately take precautions against a cold in the head, of which the sneeze is supposed to be a warning.—Le Petit Parisien.

A penny-in-the-slot automatic elevator recently has been invented. Inserting a coin, the passenger enters the car and presses a button displaying the number of the floor he wants. The car automatically stops at that floor.—Popular Mechanics Magazine.

Celluloid.
Celluloid, from which many toilet articles and imitations of ivory are made, is composed from the cellulose found in cotton cloth or raw cotton. It is treated with a solution of nitric acid which forms it into a pulp very much like paper pulp. It is then washed with water, which removes most of the acid. It is partially hardened and camphor gum mixed with it, when it is rolled into sheets and thoroughly dried. To manipulate it, it is softened by steam and then hardened by drying.

WANTS SERVICE.HEAR ME!

I am General Public.
I stood in line from 5 A. M. until noon to get
A seat for the World's Series,
I stood in a long line awaiting my turn to Purchase a theater ticket,
I stand at corners while crowded street cars
Go by, waiting for one with enough space
Wherein I might crowd myself;
I smilingly wait for the traffic officer's signal
In a traffic jam;
I spent hours in a department store waiting for a chance to make a purchase taking a few minutes;
I politely permitted a lady to take my place at the teller's window in the bank;
I waited patiently while a traveler ahead of me inquired about railroad fares, connections, long and short routes,
Pullman fares and reservations;
But I will be hanged if I wait while a postal clerk looks up the parcel post limits and transit charges to some new foreign country—I want service—and I am going to get it if I have to write to Washington about it.

G. O. P. WOMEN READY FOR 1924First Meeting of State Republican Women's Advisory Committee Held at Columbus.

"The margin of the Republican victory in 1924, which we will undoubtedly have, will depend upon the efforts put forth by Republican women," Mrs. Harriet Taylor Upton of Warren, told the state Republican women's advisory committee at its initial meeting in Columbus.

The meeting was called by Mrs. David Tod of Youngstown, associate chairman at state G. O. P. headquarters in charge of women's activities. Its purpose was to start organization now for the 1924 presidential and gubernatorial campaigns.

Mrs. Upton recently returned from a 7,000-mile "swing around the circuit," as she put it, in which she addressed the women of more than half of the states.

"This will be the first campaign that we women have been in from the inception," said Mrs. Upton. "In 1920 suffrage came too late to give us a vote in the primary, and we were not sufficiently organized to put forth much concerted effort in the November election."

"In 1924 it will be different. In Ohio we have perfected a state organization to start with, composed of one woman in each of the 22 congressional districts. Within these districts the county chairwomen will be appointed, and under them a leader in each ward precinct and township."

"I have found that women are more interested in organization than they are in ship subsidy, the world court, or any one issue. They are interested in the success of the party, the nomination and election of good men, and they would rather see this than have a candidate of their own sex for a high office."

Mrs. Tod said the women are planning to have their own speakers' bureau in the 1924 campaign, and that Ohio talent will be used in preference to women imported from other states. "Our women would rather hear from someone in Ohio, who knows our condition and wants, than from some woman from Massachusetts, for instance, who rolls her r's," chimed in Mrs. Upton.

The personnel of the women's committee, by congressional districts, follows: First and Second, Mrs. Wilmer Crawford, Cincinnati; Third, Mrs. Abraham Brickham, Dayton; Fourth, Mrs. Albert E. Gale, Lima; Fifth, Mrs. Jessie Perry, Wauseon; Sixth, Mrs. Harry L. Miller, Portsmouth; Seventh, Mrs. John MacKee, Springfield; Eighth, Miss Edna Bright, Findlay; Ninth, rs. Dwight Peterson, Toledo; Tenth, Mrs. Biddle, Athens; Twelfth, Mrs. C. C. Pavey, Columbus; Thirteenth, Mrs. Charles L. Halter, Fremont; Fourteenth, Mrs. William E. Pardee, Akron; Fifteenth, Mrs. Sinclair Elliott, Zanesville; Sixteenth, not named; Seventeenth, Mrs. Carrie M. Willett, Mansfield; Eighteenth, Mrs. Wilma S. Levan, Steubenville; Nineteenth, Mrs. Zell Hart Deming, Warren; Twentieth and Twenty-second, not named; Twenty-first, Professor Emma M. Perkins, Cleveland.

The women announced that they would like to have two delegates-at-large out of the six which will represent Ohio. They favor Mrs. Tod and Mrs. Battelle for the posts of honor.

DONAHEY LETS LOOSE CONVICTS WHOLESALE

Columbus, O.—At the close of the ninth month of Governor Vic Donahey's administration, the pardon records in his office showed that he had released 37 convicts from the penitentiary, including eight murderers.

The same records show that Governor Harry L. Davis, at the close of his ninth month, had extended executive clemency to six persons, of whom five were serving short terms for larceny, and one for contributing to juvenile delinquency. He pardoned only two murderers during his 24 months in office.

If Governor Donahey's ratio of pardons is continued, at the close of his term he will have granted 92 pardons; Davis, during his term, issued but 38 pardons.

Pardons Classified.

Donahey's pardon record for nine months, classified as to crimes, is as follows:

Murder, 8; burglary, 6; robbery, 5; rape, 2; shooting to kill, 2; auto theft, 2; forgery, 3; uttering check to defraud, 2; carrying concealed weapons, 1; receiving stolen property, 1; receiving mortgaged property, 1; operating motor vehicle without owner's consent, 1; receiving bribes, 1; cutting to wound, 1; perjury 1. Total, 37. Included among the men freed by the governor from sentences given them by the courts are two who served him at the executive mansion for several months—Earl Jennings of Butler county, who killed two men, and Harry Ward of Montgomery county, who took one life.

PARALYSIS

Caused Death of Michael Rader, Father of Samuel G. Rader.

Of his immediate family he is survived by one brother, Thomas Rader, of this city and a large number of nephews and nieces in Pickaway county. The funeral was held Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

Hotel Stenographer BY ROE FULKERSON

"What a gosh-awful day," sighed the Hotel Stenographer. "You don't have to go out in it," laughed the Detective.

"That's a man for you" replied the girl. When it is dripping and droopy, a man thinks it would be a fine time to get in Casey's back room and play pinochle.

"When the skies are heavy laden and the day is dark and gloomy, women wonder if life is worth living. They feel sure that the new dress is not going to hang right."

"On days like this, women run away with chauffeurs, box children's ears, rummage thru all the pockets of all the clothing which husbands have left hanging in the house, call up their sweeties on the telephone to find out if they are really where they said they were going to be, and generally hunt misery to mesh themselves with the weather. A man, who has no more temperament than a hippopotamus, is wondering if it will keep his wife in the house all afternoon, so she will have time to cook that cabbage she has been promising him."

"On a bright spring day, a woman feels bright, like she ought to, but on a day like this, every woman opens a lodge of sorrow and wanders around the graveyards and holy places of her memory, until she can find something to make her as miserable as the weather seems to indicate that she would enjoy feeling."

"Kelly, let your women folks alone on a day like this, for they are hunting something to cry about."

Petty Coat.

This was the former spelling of petticoat, which meant the little or short coat worn in other days by men. Henry V. had a "petty coat" of red damask with open sleeves. Afterward the fashion, with skirt variations, was imitated by women, who copied the gown, robe, frock, and blouse, which were all worn in the first place by men.

AMUSEMENTS

Leatrice Joy and Jack Holt enjoyed to the full, recently that most enjoyable of human experiences, turning the tables. For to them was afforded the privilege of standing behind the camera and criticising a man who many a time and oft had stood in the same place and criticised them.

The filming of "Hollywood" which is on view at the Metropolitan theater this week, was the occasion and most particularly the sequence in this screen novelty where Cecil B. DeMille "appears in person." The sequence shows Mr. De Mile signing a player to a contract, just as he has done to the above named Pola Nekri, Thomas Melghan, Gloria Swanson, William S. Hart, Agnes Ayres and a score of others.

"I think he needs a little more powder," Mr. Holt suggested.

"He's just a wee bit, well, er—conscious, don't you think?" asked Miss Joy.

And so on. But they reckoned without their host. For before he became a director Cecil B. De Mille was a successful stage actor and no amount of off-stage conversation could deflect him from the business at hand, as the picture proves.

Be Truthful Always.

He that is habituated to deceptions and artificialities in trifles, will try in vain to be true in matters of importance; for truth is a thing of habit rather than of will. You cannot in any sudden and single effort will to be true if the habit of your life has been insincere.—F. W. Robertson.

FOR DIRECTOR

Harry Taylor of Portsmouth Times on Associated Press Board.

Harry E. Taylor, general manager of the Times Publishing Co., publishers of The Portsmouth Evening Times Morning Sun and Sunday Sun Times, has been nominated for director of the Associated Press.

Mr. Taylor "cut his eye teeth" in the newspaper game when he was 13 years old, learning the business from the ground up on the Morgan County Democrat, McConnellsville, Ohio, a paper in which his father was interested. At first he received 25 cents a week.

Later he worked as a reporter in Zanesville, Cleveland, Detroit, Akron and other cities.

He bought a small interest in the company which founded The Portsmouth Times in 1894. In 1898 he joined with Valee Harold in the purchase of the newspaper. The Sunday paper was established in 1919.

The Morning Sun was started by Mr. Taylor and Mr. Harold in 1920.

Mr. Taylor was a member of the board of trustees of the hospital for epileptics at Gallipolis.

Thruout Ohio he is well and favorably known.

FARMERS' INSTITUTE SEASON.

Five Farmers' institutes have been held in Pickaway county during the past six weeks with a record breaking attendance. In at least four of the five institutes, the attendance was limited by the size of the auditoriums. At Ashville, at least two hundred people were turned away during a single session because of lack of seating capacity. At every institute the interest was sufficiently high that plans were made to hold institutes again in 1925.

FATHER REUNITED TO SONS LOST 17 YEARS

Youths Were Abducted by Their Mother in 1907.

Southbridge, Mass.—Camille L. Perron of Dresser street is rejoicing over the unexpected homecoming of his two long-lost sons, Camille Napoleon and Napoleon Wilrose Perron, whom he had not seen or heard from since their mother abducted them from their home here more than sixteen years ago, when the elder was three years and the younger only two weeks old.

Now grown to young manhood, they came back with their father after an eventful journey that extended half way across the continent and took them many months. Abandoned four years ago in South Dakota, they started East in search of their father and finally found him through a chance conversation with a taxi man.

Finds Family Missing.

It was on the night of July 11, 1907, that Perron returned to his home to find the house vacant and his wife and sons missing. No one had seen them leave. For several years he did not know where they had gone. Then newcomers into the town from the Canadian northwest brought the report that she and the two children were living in Willow Hills, Saskatchewan, with her parents, who had left their home in East Poultney, Vt., to settle in that territory. Before her marriage, Mrs. Perron was Anna Manche Jacob, and lived with relatives in Dudley, where her wedding to Perron took place.

Soon after their marriage they came to Southbridge, where the children were born and where they lived in apparent happiness until the mysterious disappearance of the wife and children. Perron said that he had never tried to communicate with his wife and bring about a reconciliation because he had never received a message from her and never knew why she left him. He said that the boys would be given every possible care by him and his eighty-two-year-old mother, Mrs. Marie Perron. Perron is now thirty-nine years old, and his wife is several years younger. He is proprietor of a jitney company operating in this town and Worcester.

Sons Start Hunt for Father.

According to the story told by the boys, their mother left them about four years ago somewhere in South Dakota, where they believe she is now living. Having been told that their father was living in Massachusetts they resolved to make the journey at the first opportunity. Their mother's uncle, Napoleon Jacob, who formerly lived in Marlboro but later moved to the Canadian northwest, decided recently to return East, and the boys made the trip with him.

They reached Worcester about a week ago, and since that time had been searching without success for their father. While walking on Worcester Common they met David Duquette, a Southbridge taxicab driver; and during their conversation with him learned that he knew their father. Duquette immediately telephoned to Perron, and the latter hastened to Worcester and brought them to his home here.

He celebrated their return by keeping open house, showering them with all the good things they could eat, new clothing and other gifts, and by receiving the congratulations of relatives and friends throughout the neighborhood. He intends to take them into business with him.

Judge's Request for Pay

Cut Amazes Politicians

Binghamton, N. Y.—H. C. Stratton of Oxford, appointed by Governor Smith as county judge of Chenango county to succeed James P. Hill, who was elected a justice of the Supreme court, has broken precedents by requesting the board of county supervisors to reduce his salary from $4,000 to $3,500.

The request struck a pleasing chord with the taxpayers, but politicians are horrified.

Judge Stratton maintains that $3,500 is ample pay for the service he is called on to perform, and says the taxpayers should have the benefit of the extra $500.

Rich Girl, Poor Girl

By MYRA CURTIS LANE

(© 1924, Western Newspaper Union.)

EFFIE leaned out of the window and looked into the street below. It was the eve of her marriage. She was twenty-eight and Ralph was thirty-seven. They were both too old for folly. It was essentially a marriage of convenience. For Ralph had an old and untarnished name, and Effie had money.

More money than she knew what to do with. Her father had been a millionaire, and she had inherited half his money and a large house in the city. She was certainly a rich girl.

Only love had never come her way. Just a few trivial flirtations, and twice what she thought was the genuine thing, but found was not. In that she was poor—a very poor girl.

It was not late. Her relatives had gone home early, leaving her alone, except for the servants, in the large house. And she leaned out of the window, looking at the people passing. How intent they were, each on his own affairs. Each person looking for happiness, and never finding it. That was the way it went.

Then she saw a couple sauntering slowly along the street, their arms about each other. They were absorbed in each other, heedless of the softly falling rain. Poor they were, and yet so rich in their love. It was she who was the poor girl.

If only she could step out of the great house and put everything behind her—Ralph, the whole past, and begin to live. She had never lived. And now she was entering a blind alley with Ralph.

She had tried so hard to love him, but it was all impossible. And somewhere in the world a lover might be waiting for her—the lover who would make her rich.

She started as a ring came at the door. She had sent the servants to bed; she expected nobody. She went out to the hall and opened it, a little frightened. Ralph stood there.

"Oh, it's you! Come in!" She leaned forward, prepared to give him the mechanical kiss that was already becoming the habit between them. But his face startled her.

"Come in, Ralph. What is it?" she asked, facing him in the drawing-room. "Is anything the matter?" she went on.

"Effie, I've been thinking. It isn't too late. Would you like to release me?"

The words made her heart bound. Release—what she had dreamed of! For a few moment wild hopes ran coursing through her brain. Then she saw the impossibility of it all—her relatives, her friends, the scandal. . . .

"Why, Ralph?"

"Because you don't love me, Effie. It would be insensate to start our life together like that. You don't, do you?"

"No," she cried desperately. "I—I've tried so hard to, Ralph. But it was impossible from the beginning."

"Then—?"

"Can we help going through with it now?"

"I'll take the responsibility."

"You can't, Ralph. Jilting is a woman's privilege." She laughed bitterly. "Well—let it be as you say."

He turned away, and she saw him swallowing hard. She took a step toward him. "Isn't that all right, Ralph?"

He took her hands in his. "Effie, if you knew how very much I cared. Did you think it was anything else? Your money—?"

She was listening as in a dream. What was he telling her?

"I know you tried to care, but you couldn't, Effie. And that's why I want to set you free."

"Ralph, I never knew all this. I—"

"But it isn't too late."

"I'll give you your answer in a few minutes. No, wait—wait!"

She was trying desperately to think. If she had known—but they had started wrong from the beginning. She turned toward him, and the look on his face touched her to the heart.

"Ralph, I did care at first, till you seemed to repulse my love. No, don't answer that. We don't want to quarrel now. Ralph, dear, I—I want to go through with it. You see, nobody has ever cared for me, and if you say you do—"

And then suddenly she knew she was no longer a poor girl but a very rich girl indeed.

Excusable Ignorance

Addressing an assemblage of men, the young parson said, brightly:

"Everyone here surely is more or less interested in psychology."

Every man in the audience laughed outright.

"I said," repeated the cleric gravely, "that probably everyone here is interested in psychology."

The men roared with laughter.

In despair, "the cloth" appealed to its chairman. What was the meaning of this unseemly behavior?

It was explained that Psychology had won the So-and-So stakes a few days before.—Rehoboth Sunday Herald.

A River of Romance

What a stream of romance and story the Missouri river has been! This wonderful river with its broad stretches of lake and bluff, its bird-haunted islands and bayous, its changing moods, its varying climes and vegetation, its Indian and white populations, its song and story, has built itself into our national structure, and the end is not yet.

The story of the Mississippi has not yet been written. It is liquid romance. It has been flowing down this central valley as long as water has flowed anywhere on this continent. The geologist speaks of it as "hoary with antiquity." And it will flow here when the last man has vanished from the scene of desolation, and so long as water can flow on a parched and desolate globe.—Indianapolis Journal.

Hunting Cheeta

For short distances the cheeta is supposed to be the swiftest quadruped. However, it is not possible to ascribe the honor definitely to any particular animal. The cheeta, which is found in Asia and Africa, is a large tropical cat, slender of body and limb. It is from three to four feet long and of a pale, tawny color, marked with numerous dark spots on its sides and back and almost white beneath. It resembles the leopard, and is often called the hunting leopard. The animal resembles the dog in docility. Its fur is not sleek like that of typical cats. It has a long tail, which is somewhat bushy at the end.

A Suggestion

"Well, law suzz!" ejaculated Mrs. Johnson in the midst of her reading. "This is shore funny: A professor, up there in the East some'ers, is going to try to larn young apes to talk."

"Hum!" returned Gap Johnson of Rumpus Ridge. "If it don't cost too much we mought get him down yur to try his scheme on our baby. The little feller don't do much now but cuss."

No Consolation

The vicar, after a heavy defeat, was returning disconsolate from the links.

"Cheer up," said his opponent, "you'll win at the finish. Why, you'll be burying me one day, I expect."

"But even then," said the vicar, "it will be your hole!"

Described to a T

"Can you give me a good description of your absconding cashier?" suavely asked the detective.

"We-ell," answered the hotel proprietor, "I believe he's about five feet five inches tall and about $7,000 short."

now I'll get results

That's the way every man to whom we sell a Buckeye Incubator talks—and he gets them too, every time. If you expect to make your poultry pay, come in and let us show you the Buckeye Incubator. Then you talk to some of the people to whom we've sold these wonderful machines. They'll tell you, you can only expect Buckeye results with a genuine Buckeye—perfect hatches of big husky chicks—seldom a cripple or weakling, 65 to 600-egg capacity. Chicks that die in the shell come out of your profits. Get the machine that hatches them all.

And Raise Them with a Buckeye Colony Brooder

WHY BANKS?

LESSON IV

By J. H. PUELICHER, Chairman,

Committee on Public Education, American Bankers Association.

Formerly the saver paid to have his money kept in a safe place. Today he is paid interest by banks which keep his savings safe. Is this interest on money, saved and deposited in the bank, the only gain to the depositor from saving?

J. H. Puelicher

MONEY SAVED AND DEPOSITED IN BANK = funds for the banker to loan out on farm mortgages, land bank or other farm bonds; railroad, municipal or government bonds; or notes of farmers, merchants and manufacturers. Therefore SAVING = assisting the farmer to raise crops; the railroads to run trains; the town, city, state or nation to build schools for the children of the depositor and his fellow citizens; or construct water works or other public enterprises.

Saving also equals helping the butcher, baker and grocer to do business so that food is brought within reach of the home; and the manufacturer to make shoes, clothing and the many things people need to live.

Every saver, therefore, is not only putting away money against a rainy day and earning interest on it meanwhile, but he is also making it possible for himself and others to have the luxuries, comforts and necessities of life,—to enjoy all the advantages of a greater and better civilization. Thus through banks every saver gains a great deal more than merely interest on his money.

STRAIGHT TALKS WITH AUNT EMMY

ON HOW NOT TO GET RICH

"Oh, Aunt Emmy," cried Helen, rushing in and kissing Aunt Emmy, "I've got a wonderful chance to get rich. The nicest man told me about a patent bee-hive that will double my money in a year! With it bees will make two or three times as much honey. If I buy it right away I can make ever so much money, for the stock is selling at fifty cents and it's going to par soon, whatever that is, so I'll have oodles of money. Oh, Aunt, won't it be lovely? You and I can go to Europe and—"

"Hold on a minute, Helen," begged Aunt Emmy; "would you really let this man have your money for a fool thing like that?"

"Why, Aunt, I'm sure it is all right! He gave me the loveliest booklet—I brought it along. You are so suspicious, Aunt," she reproached.

"Suspicious, am I! That $5,000 is the only money you ever had or ever expect to have except what you earn as a teacher. You can't afford to throw it away. Sit right down and write to your bank for information about that bee-hive. Tell them you are thinking of investing your $5,000, and send them the booklet."

"But, Aunt, that would take several days, and the man said not to wait," Helen protested.

"If people would wait a while before investing, there would be far less failures in the world. You will hear from the bank soon enough. Promise."

"I suppose I'll have to," agreed Helen, crestfallen, "but I'm sure the old bank doesn't want to be bothered with poor little me."

When Helen came to see Aunt Emmy again she looked serious. Aunt Emmy guessed that her get-rich-quick bubble had burst.

"Look, Aunt," she said, handing over a letter from the bank that gave a report on the patent bee-hive. The letter said that the men engaged in the enterprise were not trustworthy. It invited Helen to consult with the bank about her investment.

"You were right, Aunt," said Helen. "I saw Mr. Hitchcock there. He told me a lot about investments and suggested some safe ones. I never understood the bank's value before. If it had not been for you and the bank I should not have a cent today. I'll never do a thing with money unless I ask the bank first. I felt I was with friends, Aunt."

"You were, my dear," said Aunt Emmy, smiling.—ANNE B. AYMES.

AMERICA NOT INDIFFERENT

By FRANCIS H. SISSON,

Chairman, Public Relations Commission, American Bankers Association.

Francis H. Sisson

While the facts justify the belief that the financial and general economic strength of the United States is so great that it creates a stability here which cannot be seriously shaken by the adverse conditions in Europe, it still remains true that an attitude of indifference to these distressing conditions is unworthy of the American people. In fact, I believe that such indifference does not exist. The nation is observing with deep interest the progress of events abroad and has given many evidences of a readiness to aid in restoring normal conditions there whenever it is seen that a suitable opportunity is afforded.

Our people have naturally been reluctant to act while the European nations still fail to display the will to accept the only terms on which rehabilitation is possible, and to abandon their mutual hatreds and distrusts, their persistence in preparation for further warfare, and their destructive political and financial policies. Such policies have so weakened the credit of some of the continental nations that the task of aiding them seems futile until it is clear that these policies are discredited and disowned by them.

Although it seems clear from the record of recent years that America, more perhaps than any other country, has been and will continue to be able to adjust itself without serious disaster to the conditions created by European depression, and has in its own vast domestic market and in other non-European markets an outlet for its products adequate to maintain a fair degree of national prosperity, the fact remains that it is very definitely to the selfish interests of the United States to have Great Britain and the European continental countries regain their normal prosperity at the earliest possible date. They normally absorbed between 60 and 70 per cent of American exports, but recently have been taking less than 50 per cent.

Moreover, the rich contribution which Europe has made in the past to the upbuilding of other parts of the world, including the United States, would seem to create a genuine obligation upon other countries to come to its aid in the present period of difficulty. General well-being throughout the entire world will be diminished to a degree as long as Europe is unable to play its part in production and consumption of valuable products. It possesses vast resources of skill and equipment for the production of useful commodities in demand by all nations, and loss continues while these resources are limited in their use by poverty and by adverse political and social conditions.

That the share of the United States in this loss is relatively small should not preclude an active interest in every promising effort that may be made to restore the European nations to economic and financial health.

A Chance to Shine

THE young man of today need not leave the farm for a career. True, present conditions are not conducive to large financial returns, but these conditions will undoubtedly change. Those who are in position to know think that we have reached the low ebb and now farm products are on the up-grade.

We have only begun to solve our agricultural problems. There is a large unexplored field ahead of us. The young man with brains and a sympathetic heart can find ample opportunities for making a name for himself on the farm.

In addressing a national group of young people recently, President Head, of the American Bankers Association, said he believes the opportunities for making a name as a leader in agriculture are greater than making a name in the position of a Congressman. He thinks the day is coming when a man shall take pride in saying, "I am an American farmer."

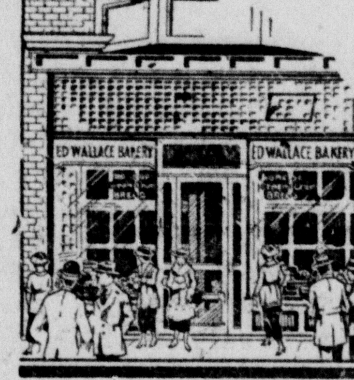

Any young man who has a liking for things rural can well afford to consider preparing himself to become a good farmer, for after he has made a success of his farm, he will find abundant opportunity for leadership in his community.—Banker-Farmer.

KINDERHOOK

Committee Appointed to Consider Establishment of Cooperative Elevator.

On Friday afternoon, February 15, the meeting at the Farmers' institute at Mt. Pleasant was given over to a discussion of a Cooperative Elevator at Kinderhook. The entire board of directors of the Pickaway Grain company were present to look over the territory and talk with the farmers of the possibility of locating an elevator there. The sentiment among those present was that now is the opportune time to start an elevator as a branch of the cooperative elevator at Circleville, as this cooperative elevator has gained the confidence of the people and the selling of stock would be made easy by reason of that confidence. A committee was appointed to confer with the directors of the Pickaway Grain company as soon as an investigation of facilities for handling grain has been made.

SOCIAL CALENDAR

February 14, a jolly crowd of ladies was invited to the pleasant country home of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Lape near Stoutsville. Old St. Valentine must have asked the weatherman for nice weather, for it was a lovely winter day. Comfort knotting was the program of the day. Fingers flew busily tying knots until noon when the hostess invited them to the dining room which was prettily decorated reminding them of the day. After feasting on the many good things served by the hostess, the guests again tied knots after which they spent a social hour when ice cream was served. Those present were Mrs. A. M. Valentine, Mrs. Oscar Dozer, Mrs. Charles McDonald, Mrs. Bert Stahl, Mrs. Monroe Lape, Mrs. N. F. Shupe, Mrs. J. M. Pearce, Miss Pauline McDonald, Mrs. Harley Pearce, Mrs. W. G. Miesse and Mrs. Clifford Valentine of Amanda.

TO ENFORCE HIGHWAY LAW

Governor Donahey Issues Proclamation Reducing Loads on Roads.

Maximum on and After February 20 is Seven and One-Half Tons—Sheriffs of Counties Will Enforce Limitations so That Public Highways be Saved.

Governor Vic Donahey has issued the following proclamation:

"During the period of thawing and excessive moisture in the late winter and early spring months, the improved roads of the state are subject to destruction or great damage by reason of the transportation of excessive loads upon them.

"Such damage annually entails a great loss to the people of Ohio. Proper maintenance of improved roads is as important as the construction of new highways. Prevention of destruction is maintenance as truly as the repair of roads after damages have occurred.

"Under the law, the maximum permissible load of ten tons, including the weight of the vehicle, is required to be reduced by twenty-five per cent during the period in which thaws or excessive moisture render the improved roads of the state liable to damage by heavy traffic. During such period, the maximum load permitted on the improved highways of the state is seven and one-half tons, including the weight of the vehicle. This limitation will be effective February 20 on all improved highways of Ohio. Violations of the law are subject to severe penalties.

"Therefore, as governor of Ohio, I ask for the cooperation of all persons firms or corporations engaged in the operation of motor vehicles in a strict observance of the law limiting the maximum load which may be transported on the highways. It is the duty of the sheriffs of the counties to enforce these limitations.

"The law must be rigidly enforced and all public spirited citizens should assist officials to the end that Ohio's great investment in her system of public highways may be properly conserved."

CONFIDENCE

The most beautiful of all human relationships are based on CONFIDENCE. Love is based on confidence, friendship is based on confidence, happy marriages are based on confidence; and so, confidence is the highest aim a business institution can achieve, because it introduces into the processes of buying and selling, something of the unselfish quality of those sacred human relationships that are untouched and uncontaminated by money. This store never wants to be guilty of such bad taste as to claim perfection, but it makes no secret of its ambition to foster and deserve at all times the confidence of its customers.
